

Forschungsinstitut für Resonanzphänomene

Olaf Baumunk -- Bioplasmatist

Schwand 9 --- D 79837 Häusern

Tel: 0176 - 42640640 -- E-Mail: baumunk52@aol.de

Aschoff-Test: BioPendant by SWISS HARMONY

April 18th 2016

The Aschoff-Test is an approved test method protected by patent in the Federal Patent Department of Germany. In the Aschoff-Test the skin resistance of the ten ting points of the proband`s left hand are metered with a device called the BIO OHM TESTER.

The higher the skin resistance data is, the worse is the bio-energetical condition of the proband.

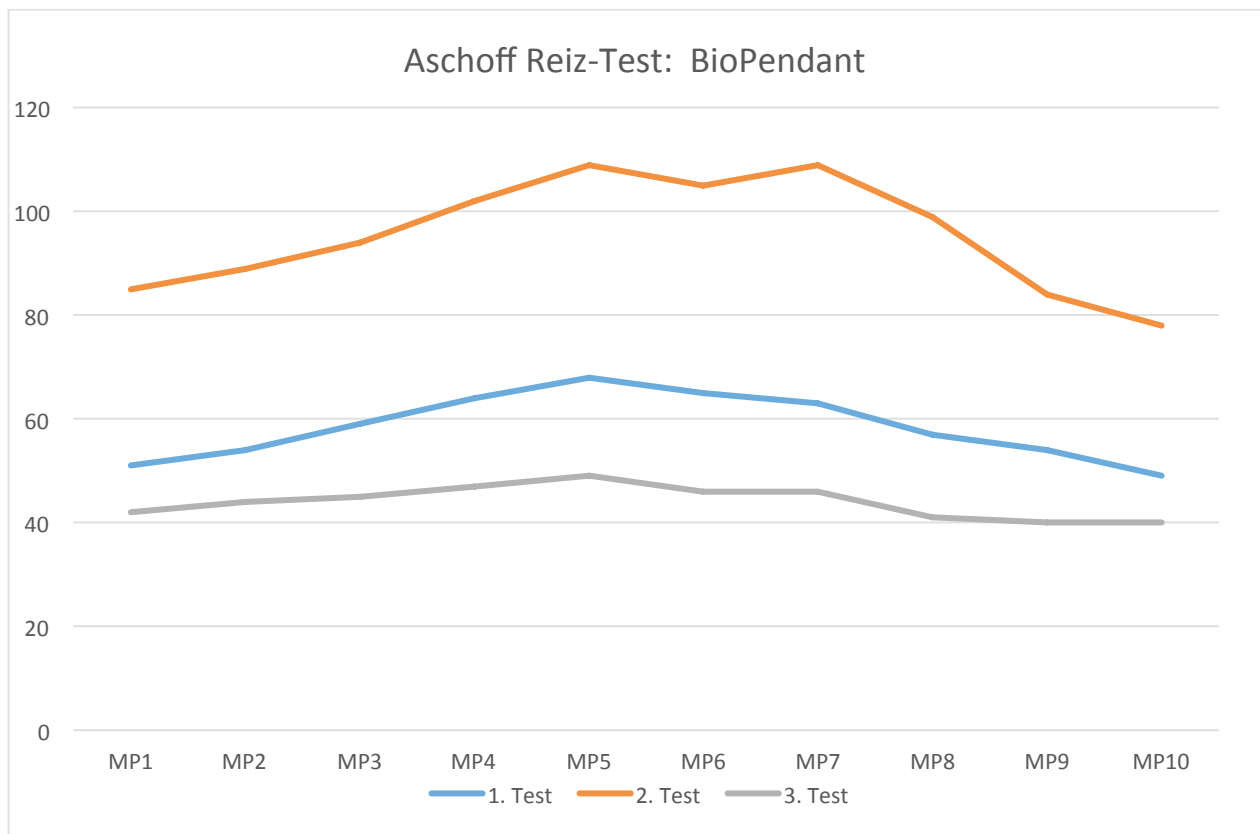

The standard value of a healthy person runs at about 40 kilo ohm. But this value is generally not achieved. Usually the value is up to 60 - 70 kilo ohm.

MP 1 - 10 are the 10 metering points on the fingers.

The first measurement is taken without putting any strain on the proband.
(blue line in the graph)

The second measurement is taken with added strain on the proband but without the BioPendant. (red line in the graph)

The third measurement is taken with added strain on the proband but with the BioPendant. (grey line in the graph)

The outcome:

The first reading already shows the proband's (64 years old male) exposure to pathogenic sources of irritation, but the measured data is acceptable and there is no reason to worry. The standard value of 40 kilo ohm is only a little exceeded.

At the second reading the proband is exposed to extensive electromagnetic contamination in form of the high frequency radiation from two mobile phones and the low frequency electromagnetic field of a current-carrying electrical wire. The red line in the graph shows a significant increase of the skin resistance, which implies a strong health risk.

The measured data of the third reading with the BioPendant attached to the proband's neck is surprisingly good. They run below the measured data without strain and without the BioPendant and almost reach the standard value. This allows only one conclusion:

The BioPendant made by SWISS HARMONY generates a healthful energy field, which completely neutralizes the bad effects from electromagnetic energy fields (E-smog). The BioPendant by SWISS HARMONY is a very valuable bio-energetic device.